The Cliff Dwellers

Architecture Category — Full Membership Roster

William J. Bowe · wbowe.com

Editor's Notes: Source: the Newberry-derived Cliff Dwellers member database (1907–2015), "Member + Detail" sheet, filtered to the members whose recorded Profession is "Architecture" (one duplicate database row for a single 1999 member was removed), plus Ben Johnson (CD 2013–), added October 2026, for 320 in all. Years ending in a dash (e.g. “1984–”) mark members who still belong to the club. Fields shown: name, whether the member's recorded membership type was Honorary, the year(s) of membership on file, profession, and any comment already in the database.

The 21 most famous members among these 320 are listed first, in descending order of fame, based on web research (national and international landmark buildings, AIA Gold Medals, firm leadership, lasting influence on Chicago and American architecture, etc.) — with a brief note on why each was placed where they were. Given how many nationally significant architects passed through the club — from Frank Lloyd Wright and Louis Sullivan to Daniel Burnham's Plan of Chicago and the founders of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill — this is one of the most historically dense of the club's professional categories. The complete roster of all 320 Architecture-category members follows, in alphabetical order by last name.

21 Most Famous Members (Ranked by Fame)

#	Name	Honorary	Year(s)	Profession	Comment (source database)	Why Notable (research)
1	Wright, Frank Lloyd		1908	Architecture	—	Widely regarded as America's greatest architect. Pioneer of the Prairie School and originator of "organic architecture"; designed Fallingwater, the Guggenheim Museum, and the Robie House in Chicago's Hyde Park. Recipient of the AIA Gold Medal (1949) and named "the greatest American architect of all time" by the American Institute of Architects in 1991.
2	Sullivan, Louis	Yes	1915–1924	Architecture	Educated at MIT and L'ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. Wrote his autobiography in his later years in the Cliff Dwellers quarters at a desk still in our possession. Designed the Auditorium Building; the Schlesinger and Mayer Building (later Carson Pirie Scott and Company); the Chicago Stock Exchange; the Otis Building and many others. 1856-1924.	Called the "father of the skyscraper" and father of American Modernism; coined the principle "form follows function." Designed Chicago's Auditorium Building, the Carson Pirie Scott store, and the Chicago Stock Exchange. Mentor to Frank Lloyd Wright. Wrote his autobiography, The Autobiography of an Idea, at a desk in the Cliff Dwellers' own clubrooms, still in the club's possession.
3	Burnham, Daniel Sr H		1912	Architecture	Deceased 1912	Led the design of the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition (the "White City") and authored the 1909 Plan of Chicago, the era-defining document of American urban planning, famous for the line "Make no little plans." Also designed the Flatiron Building in New York and Union Station in Washington, D.C.

5	Goldberg, Bertrand		1957–1987	Architecture	Marina Towers, etc.	Designed Chicago's iconic Marina City towers (1964), among the most recognizable buildings in the Chicago skyline and pioneering examples of mixed-use urban residential design; also designed Prentice Women's Hospital and River City.
6	Jensen, Jens		1907–1935	Architecture	Landscape architect. Many parks and public lands in Cook County, IL; houses by F.L.Wright and Louis Sullivan; founder and director of the Clearing in Ellison Bay, WI. 1859-1927.	Preeminent Prairie-style landscape architect; designed dozens of Chicago-area parks and estates (many for houses by Frank Lloyd Wright and Louis Sullivan) and founded The Clearing, an influential folk school in Door County, Wisconsin. A leading figure in the American conservation movement.
7	Shaw, Howard Van Doren		1907–1926	Architecture	Designed McKinlock Court, the Art Institute of Chicago, Goodman Theater and the original quarters of the Cliff Dwellers at 220 S Michigan, Chicago. 1869-1926.	One of Chicago's most prominent early-20th-century architects; designed Market Square in Lake Forest, additions to the Art Institute of Chicago (McKinlock Court), the Goodman Theatre, and the Cliff Dwellers' original clubhouse at 220 S. Michigan Avenue. Posthumously awarded the AIA Gold Medal in 1927.
8	Goodhue, Bertram Grosvenor		1911–1925	Architecture	Died in his NYC home at the age of 55. Respected widely as an outstanding figure in architecture.	Nationally celebrated architect of the American Gothic and Spanish Colonial Revivals; designed the Nebraska State Capitol, West Point's Cadet Chapel, and the Panama-California Exposition buildings in San Diego. Widely regarded in his lifetime as one of America's foremost architects.
9	Elmslie, George Grant		1913–1938	Architecture	—	Leading Prairie School architect; chief draftsman for Louis Sullivan for two decades before forming the influential firm Purcell & Elmslie, known for pioneering Prairie-style banks, houses, and ornament across the Midwest.
10	Purcell, William Gray		1916–1923	Architecture	—	Co-founder, with George Grant Elmslie, of Purcell & Elmslie, one of the most prolific and celebrated Prairie School firms, designing homes, banks, and public buildings throughout the Upper Midwest.
11	Pond, Irving K.		1907–1938	Architecture	See Allen B Pond. Architect of Hull House, Chicago Commons and numerous other buildings. Author of 3 books. 1857-1939.	Designed Chicago's Hull House and Chicago Commons settlement-house buildings along with numerous university and public buildings; authored three books on architectural theory and practiced for decades with his brother Allen B. Pond, also a Cliff Dwellers member.
12	Bennett, Edward H.		1908–1911	Architecture	Architect and city planner. Associated with Daniel Burnham (same firm??). San Francisco, CA	Co-author, with Daniel Burnham, of the landmark 1909 Plan of Chicago; went on to a long career as a city planner, designing Chicago's Buckingham Fountain and Grant Park and helping shape the city's lakefront.
