Dear Mary,

I just read in the newspaper of your husband's death.

You and your family have my sympathy for I have just been through the sorrow and anxiety myself.

I have always enjoyed meeting you and Bill when you were taking your walks in the good old days.

Sincerely,
Louis Wickland

Dear Gus:

I spent most of the last several days in bed, consequently was unable to visit you and express my sympathy on the death of your brother Bill. I always thought he was a quiet, self-effacing, nice man whom I liked, although I knew him only slightly.

I know he has suffered much the last several years and that despite your separation in the law business the past years, his death will leave a void in your life.

You may be sure I will remember him in my prayers.

Sincerely,
Rogers
