Dear Vic:

I am happy to accept your offer of February 21, 1968 to publish in September or October my article on zoning. Therefore, the article will not be circulated to other law reviews for their consideration.

You mentioned that you or one of your staff would like to go over certain changes and I will, of course, be happy to assist you in this regard.

Good luck with your current issue on the Illinois Constitutional Convention. If the Illinois voters ever adopt the new constitution, I am sure you will go down in history books as the crusading law review editor whose scholarly efforts were responsible for demolishing the arguments of anti-constitutional dumb-dumbs. Of course, if it is defeated, history will also record where the blame lies. Bear up under the strain.

Thanks again.

Best wishes,

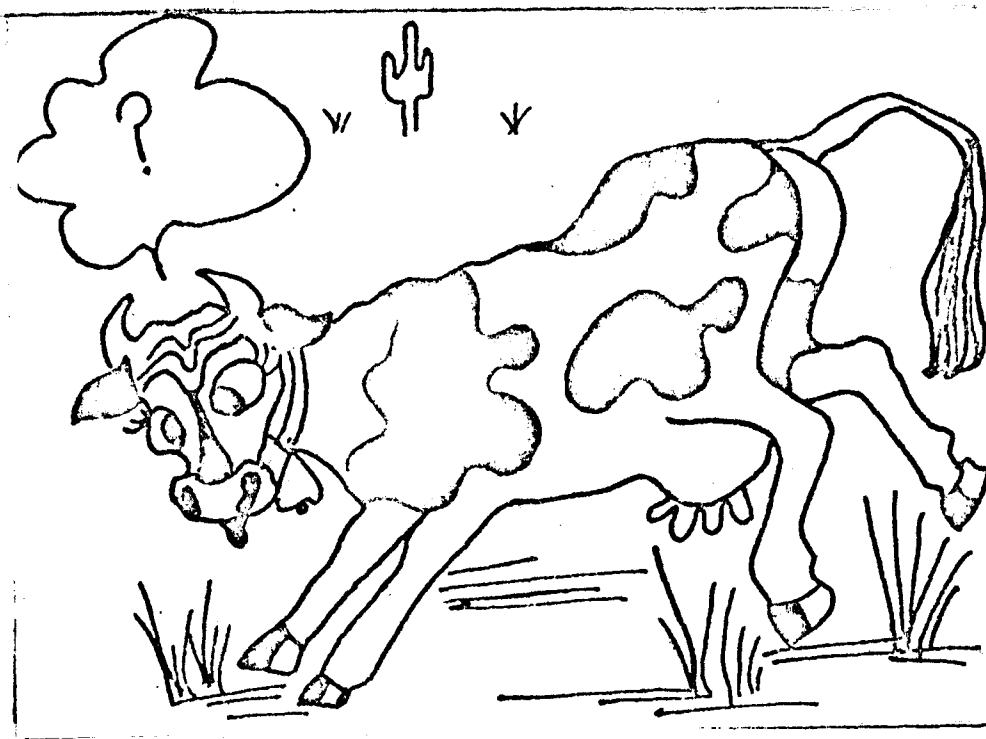

William J. Bowe
